VOL. XVI.—NO. 171. PORTLAND, OREGON: WEDNESDAY, AUGUST 16, 1876. PRICE—TEN CENTS.

EASTERN NEWS.

[BY TELEGRAPH TO THE OREGONIAN.]

Parts of the Statue of Liberty for New York Harbor Arriving.

NEW YORK, Aug 15—The first shipment of a portion of the bronze statue of Liberty which is to be erected on Bedloes Island as a lighthouse was received from France by the steamer Salerion of the Havre line yesterday. There are eight sections packed in as many boxes. Of this consignment only two boxes have been landed, one containing the right hand and wrist and other portions. The casting is of dark bronze and hollow, the bronze being between 1 1-16 and 1½ of an inch thick and braced throughout with wrought iron stays. An iron center runs through them, the portions of which taking the same direction are bolted to the stump. The box containing the hand and wrist is 20 feet long and 12 feet high. The casting is about 14 feet by 9 between these extreme parts. The thumb nail is two feet long by one and one half feet wide. This section required twenty men to handle it; but it was lifted by ordinary derricks from the hold of the vessel and lowered to the wharf on skids. This consignment embraces the right arm, hand and wrist. The charges for freight were nearly $4,000.

The Brakemen on the O. & M. R. Renew their Strike.

NEW YORK, Aug 15.—The Times' Cincinnati dispatches from North Vernon indicate the renewal of the strike of the brakemen on the Ohio and Mississippi Railroad with even more alarming indications than before. Late last night it is stated they tapped the telegraph line and took off some dispatches from the Superintendent to the President of the road, of a nature which highly incensed them, and before morning the revolt was general. It is stated on good authority that the Superintendent of the road is a prisoner. Freight trains have been detained by men striking and did not reach Flora, Ill., until late to day. The Governor of that State being called on immediately sent his guards to Flora, and several men have been arrested.

The Times Cincinnati special says: The dispatches from North Vernon indicate the renewal of the strike of brakemen on the Ohio and Mississippi Railroad with more alarming indication than before. Late last night, it is stated they tapped the telegraph line and took off some dispatches from the superintendent to the President of the road which were highly interesting to them, and before morning the revolt was general. It is stated on good authority that the superintendent of the road is a prisoner, his care like the freight trains being detained by the men.

Gov. Hendricks Censured.

NEW YORK, Aug 14.—The Times' Indianapolis special declares that for three days a great public highway in Indianapolis has been in the hands of a lawless mob and thousands of dollars' worth of property destroyed, simply because Hendricks is not at home to do his duty.

Centennial Admissions.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 15.—Paid admissions to the Centennial Exposition, 22,690.

Death of the Rev. E. Smith.

Intelligence has been received here that Rev. E. Smith, president of Howard University and late commissioner of Indian affairs, died at Accra on the west coast of Africa, during the latter part of June.

Mr. Blaine on the Stump.

PORTLAND, Me., Aug 14.—Hon. J. G. Blaine opened the Republican campaign in this State to-night, in an able address to an audience of 4,000 people.

THE SIOUX CAMPAIGN.

Another Account of Custer's Battle.

LEAVENWORTH, Ks., Aug 15.—The Journal to-morrow publishes the account of Custer's battle as related by Agent Miles to Superintendent Nicholson. It is a strictly Indian version of the story, and agrees in important particulars with that of the military. The Indians are said to have been forty to Custer's one.

Reported Battle between Sitting Bull and Crook.

CHICAGO, Aug. 15.—The Inter-Ocean's Sioux City special says: An Indian brought news into Fort Thompson this afternoon of a great battle recently fought by Gen. Crook's command and Sitting Bull's force. The Indians were nearly all killed. Those who escaped scattered in all directions, there not being enough left to resist the soldiers.

Terry Marches against the Sioux.

ST. PAUL, Aug. 15.—The Pioneer Press special from Sioux expedition says: Preparations are at last complete, and we march at daybreak to-morrow, the route being up Rosebud and the objective point the Indians wherever and whenever found. Primarily we expect to effect a junction with Gen. Crook, but no deviation from the main object will be made for that purpose. Sickness is showing itself among the men with a tendency to scurvy, and that which is to be done must be done soon. The weather is hot beyond precedent. The mercury indicates to-day from 109 to 115 in shade, and much apprehension is felt as to the effect of marching in such heat. Terry's force exclusive of the depot guard consists of 919 infantry, 671 cavalry, 40 artillery and 74 Crow Indians. The organization of the command is shown by the following extract from general orders: "Troops in the field will be organized for the coming movement as follows: the battalions fifth, sixth, seventh and twenty second infantry will constitute a brigade under the command of Col Gibbon of the seventh infantry. The battalions of the second and seventh cavalry, the battery of artillery and the Indian scouts will report directly to the department commander." One of the most formidable difficulties to be anticipated on the march is the want of water and grass. There has been no rain for several weeks and the Rosebud contains but very little water at its mouth and it is feared the grass which survived the drouth has been burned by the Indians. The country hereabout has been covered with smoke ever since the battle of Big Horn.

FORT BUFORD, Aug. 11.—Terry's main column on its departure from the supply camp on the Yellowstone at the mouth of Rosebud on the 8th inst., numbered a fighting force of about 1,600 men, and was accompanied by a train numbering 225 wagons containing supplies for a campaign extending over thirty days. Owing to the heavy train the movement of troops will be necessarily slow and as Gen Terry expects to return to his base of supplies on the Yellowstone about September 10th it will not allow him over twenty fighting days. He will endeavor to form a junction with Crook, and will move down the west bank of the Rosebud fifty miles, where the combined force will endeavor to engage the Indians in the region of Big Horn mountain.

Crow scouts report the main body of Sitting Bull's band encamped at Stinking river, and it will be necessary to cross the Big Horn mountains, which will be an almost impossible undertaking at this season of the year. There appears to be no prospect of an engagement with the Sioux. Unless the Indians make fight, the troops will be unable to overtake them before the approach of cold weather. It is reported large bands of northern Indians have been seen crossing the Missouri below Fort Benton going north into the British Possessions, and it is believed they will not make an attack again this year.

CHICAGO, Aug. 15.—Maj. Sanger, 15th infantry, has been left in charge of the supply camp at the mouth of the Rosebud which has been garrisoned by a company of infantry and 100 dismounted cavalry. The garrison has also been supplied with three Gatling guns to guard against attack. The camp occupies a slight prominence on the left bank of the Rosebud, and is protected by earth works on three sides. A commanding bluff overlooks the garrison from the west bank of the Yellowstone, and the Indians will undoubtedly make an attack during the absence of the main body, but it is believed a successful defense can be made. The building of posts on the Yellowstone is postponed for this year, and no attempt will be made to hold the country during the winter, and unless a heavy blow is struck this month the purpose of the expedition will be defeated. Gen. Terry will return to Rosebud about the middle of September when all the troops will be withdrawn after that date.

Terry's Battle with Sitting Bull.

OMAHA, Aug 15.—A telegram from Fort Laramie to-day says the report of Gen Terry's fight with Sitting Bull is confirmed through Indians coming to Spotted Tail agency. They report a heavy engagement, the defeat of the Indians with great loss and Sitting Bull wounded. Heavy fires have been seen from Fort Laramie to the east. It is feared the Indians have attacked ranches on and [illegible] Hills bottoms and burnt their supply of hay.

CHICAGO, Aug 15.—The Tribune's Omaha special says: The dispatch received from Helena about Terry's fight was first considered improbable, but it since has had some apparent confirmation at military headquarters here. There is no news of the junction of Crook and Terry. Crook left camp on the 5th. Terry was to march on the 7th. General Williams thinks from the direction in which the Indians were marching that it must have been Crook that met and whipped them. Private dispatches from J. W. Dean, agency postmaster, states that he got from Indian sources the news that Crook had met and defeated the Sioux. Dispatches from E. D. Townsend state he had no news from Spotted Tail agency that Terry's troops met and whipped the Indians.

Confirmation of the Sioux Battle.

WASHINGTON, Aug 15.—Gen. Sherman states he has received a similar report from another direction, to that published yesterday, stating that a terrible battle had taken place between Crook and the Sioux, and that the latter had been almost annihilated. It was brought by Red Cloud agency and sent to him from Laramie. Therefore he says there seems to be more substance in the rumor's story than was at first considered probable.

The Blackfeet Indians Reject Sitting Bull's Proposals.

NEW YORK, Aug 15.—The Tribune's Washington special says: Letters received here from the Blackfeet agency say that after a full council of all the tribes of that nation, namely the Bloods and Blackfeet, they have resolved to reject the proposals of Sitting Bull to join in the Sioux hostilities against the whites. They have on the contrary, signified their desire to send a company of scouts to join the government troops in the war against the Sioux. The unanimity with which all other [illegible] to the war with Sitting Bull shows the intense hatred and fear those marauding Sioux have created in the breasts of the weaker tribes which have retired before their aggressions. The Crows, Mandans, Shoshones, Rees, Flatheads and Blackfeet are all anxious to join our troops against the Sioux. It is certainly time for the government to interfere in behalf of the friendly Indians if not of the whites.

WASHINGTON CITY.

How the Passage of the Hawaiian Bill was Secured.

WASHINGTON, Aug 14.—The passage of the Hawaiian treaty bill by such a surprisingly large majority was the result of the finest and most assiduous efforts privately exerted by its senatorial friends among their colleagues on the floor. In this way, without endangering the bill by prolongation of debate, Sargent and others counteracted the impression produced on wavering senators by various arguments successfully advanced against the measure and this policy was departed from only in one instance where Sargent found it necessary to publicly show that Morrill's frivolous amendment regarding consular certificates was already provided for by the general law. The adoption of any amendment whatever would of course have sent the bill back with certainty of postponement until next winter and the probability of its failure. Sargent's management of the bill in getting it before the Senate for action and in saving it from the double danger of being amended or talked to death has commanded general admiration. He was warmly and effectively seconded by Mitchell and James K. Kelly. Senator Booth was known to be opposed to the bill but he refrained from voting on the question of its passing.

A large number of measures that have passed one branch of Congress will remain at the adjournment upon the Senate calendar or on the speaker's table of the House without action, for want of time or want of disposition to complete the session's work at the cost of prolonging the session a day or two in order to dispose of nearly finished measures which are confessedly unobjectionable and would give rise to no debate.

Increased Mail Service in Oregon.

The Postmaster General, at the instance of Senator Mitchell, has ordered increased service on the following Oregon routes: Roseburg to Empire City, increased to six trips per week. Dallas to Alsea, increased to semi weekly between Philomath and Alsea, service between Brownsville and Crawfordsville made tri weekly. Scio to Marion increased to six trips per week. All services to commence September 1st.

Political Ruse.

NEW YORK, Aug 14.—The Tribune's Washington special says: The politicians are very proud of the triumph which they have made under pretense of civil service reform without having to put up with any inconvenience. The more their civil service reform section of the legislative executive and judicial appropriation is read, the more apparent the swindle becomes. It really put no restriction on political assessments at all, since the officers of the United States who are appointed by the President with the advice and consent of senators are excepted from its provisions. It is not unlawful for them to make political assessments upon their subordinates, or for the latter to pay them. It gives to these higher offices a majority of the business. A few illustrations will show how it will operate. Secretary Chandler is chairman of the National Executive Committee of the Republican party. The office he holds under the Government, that of Secretary of the Interior, is one to which he was appointed by the President with the advice and consent of the Senate; he, therefore, make political assessments upon all of the clerks and employes of his every department, and it is practically law for them to be paid. If a clerk in the Interior Department undertakes to assess his fellow clerks, he is guilty of misdemeanor and may, on conviction, be fined $500. Ex Gov McCormick, of Arizona, secretary of the Republican National Committee, holds no office under the Government, unless the position of Centennial Commissioner is considered one, and there is no law to prevent him collecting money of Government employes for political purposes.

Postmaster Edmundson of this city, secretary of the Republican Congressional committee, and general manager of the Southern elections was appointed to the office by the President, and is therefore at perfect liberty to levy political taxes on government employes to his heart's contents. This shows just about what kind of reforms the present Congress is capable of. Both Houses are responsible for it.

President's Message on the River and Harbor Bill.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14.—The President to day sent the following message to the House.

In affixing my signature to the river and harbor appropriation bill, I deem it my duty to announce to the House of Representatives my objections to some features of the bill and the reason why I sign it. If it was obligatory upon the Executive to expend all money appropriated by Congress, I should return the river and harbor bill with my objections, notwithstanding the great inconvenience to public interests resulting therefrom and loss of expenditures from previous Congresses upon uncompleted works. Without enumerating many of the appropriations are made for work of a purely private or local interest, in no sense national. I cannot give my sanction to these, and will take care that during my term of office no public money shall be expended upon them. There is a very great necessity for economy in expenditures at this time, growing out of the loss of revenue likely to arise from a deficiency of appropriations to insure a thorough collection of the same. The reduction of revenue districts, the diminution of special agents, and the abolition of supervisors, may result in great falling off of revenue. It may be a question to consider whether any expenditure can be authorized under the river and harbor appropriation bill other than to protect work already done and paid for. Under no circumstances will I allow expenditures not clearly national.

U. S. GRANT.

No Action this Session on the Post Route Bill.

The House committee on postoffice and post-roads has concluded to take no action on the post route bill. This decision postpones, until next winter, if not indefinitely, the establishment of fast mails, and also prevents the restoration of the franking privilege.

No More Legislation in the House this Session.

NEW YORK, Aug 15.—The Tribune's Washington special says Randall has announced privately that he will not allow any more legislation before the final adjournment.

Speaker Kerr Dying.

The son of Speaker Kerr telegraphed from Rock Alum Springs, Va., this afternoon: Father is failing very fast. We expect the worst every moment.

Bills Approved by the President.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 15.—The President to day signed the legislative, executive and judicial appropriation bill and the Indian appropriation. All the regular annual appropriations have now been approved.

Confirmation by the Senate.

The Senate has confirmed the nomination of A. M. Clapp to be public printer.

SOUTH AMERICA.

Revolutionary War in Colombia.

NEW YORK, Aug 11.—Advices from Colombia have the following: Warlike troubles loom up in the Colombian republic. The first outbreak in the State of Cauca, July 1st, has spread. Pronunciamentos against the government have been rife in that section, and the conservative Catholic or clerical party is in open rebellion. There have been several fights in Carthage. One hundred liberals of the government party were killed or wounded by the conservatives, who gained the fight at Valdivia, near Palymaria. On July 17th the liberals defeated 5,000 conservatives. Another body of conservatives under Gen Herrar were beaten. At Mount Pichacha, Herrar losing his life in the fray, at Thabuchon and Pahundo, and in other fights the liberals claim the victory. An engagement is expected between 1,000 conservatives camped at Carthage, and 2,000 or more liberals who are about to attack them. The peaceful State of Antioquia has been given to the war party by the overthrow of the peace president, and it is foretold that the new men will send military aid to the revolutionists in Cauca. If this is done the government will interfere against the revolutionists. The Colombian guard in Panama will leave [illegible] on the 9th for Cauca.

Discovery of a Pass for a Ship Canal.

The existence of a pass across the Darien divide advocated by Mr. Gogorza in his canal project is established beyond doubt. India rubber collectors strongly [illegible] it. Two Colombian miners passed right by it in April and May last and Col. W. D. Farr, an American, went through it in June and July.

CANADA.

Terrible Rain Storm.

TORONTO, Aug 15.—A special from [illegible] says [illegible] county says a terrible rain storm visited the section on Saturday, causing immense destruction to roads, bridges and crops. Twelve bridges were swept away in a radius of three miles. The streams have never been so high.

HIS WEALTH RESTORED.—A touching incident is reported from Chattanooga. A rather stranger called on a respectable farmer last week and asked him if his house had not been robbed during the war. The farmer replied that it had. "I," said the stranger, "was one of a marauding party that did it. I took a little silver locket." "That locket," said the farmer, "had been worn by my dear dead child." "Here it is," replied the stranger, visibly affected. "I am rich. Let me make restitution. Here is $20 for your little son." He gave the farmer a $50 bill and received $30 in change. He then wrung the farmer's hand warmly and left. The farmer has since dried his tears and loaded his shotgun. The $50 bill was a bad one.

CONGRESSIONAL.

Senate.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 15.

Logan called up conference report on the [illegible] issue of [illegible] to soldiers [illegible]. After discussion agreed to.

Spencer submitted the following [illegible] which was objected to by several Democrats and it went over: Whereas, it is alleged that the late election August 7, 1876, in the State of Alabama for State officers and members of the Legislature, was characterized by great frauds, violence and intimidation, whereby the freedom of the ballot was in a great measure destroyed and a reign of terror established, the ballot boxes stuffed, precincts where large Republican majorities existed not opened for voting, obstacles were interposed to prevent registration so that the popular majority of more than 10,000 was overcome and in its place was given an apparent but fraudulent majority of more than 40,000, and whereas the Legislature thus chosen will have the election of a Senator to represent that State in this body; and, whereas, if these allegations are true, a great number of citizens had their rights under the constitution and laws of the United States wickedly violated; therefore, resolved, that a committee of five Senators be appointed by the Chair to investigate the truth of said election, with power to sit during recess, to visit Alabama and make investigations, to send for persons and to use all necessary process in performance of their duties, and to make a report to the Senate during the next session of their investigation and finding, and that such committee be authorized to employ a clerk and stenographer.

When the Hawaiian bill came up Norwood continued his remarks against it. He argued there was no inducement for acquiring the Hawaiian Islands as an outpost in the Pacific ocean. It had been asserted that the population of the islands had been rapidly decreasing, and if the bill is passed the islands would naturally fall into our hands. He denied the decrease of the population was at the rate claimed, and said even if it was at that rate, it would take fourteen years, with the present population of 40,000, for it to dwindle down to [illegible]. He quoted from the works of Mr. Nordhoff at length to show the condition of affairs in the Hawaiian Islands and argued that the production of sugar there was weighed down with difficulties which did not exist anywhere else. It was the most remarkable thing he ever heard of that the king of the country with which the treaty had been negotiated had a minister here urging the passage of the measure, which that minister argued would be the destruction of the kingdom he represented. Norwood argued this measure was urged by the Hawaiian government for pecuniary advantage, that country would reap the benefit of the bill should it be passed and the United States would be the sufferers, in his opinion. King Kalakua had far more craft, he thought, than the United States, and he knew that the passage of the bill would be a benefit to his kingdom. The effect of the bill would be to give the Hawaiian Islands a bonus of $1,000,000 a year, and would increase the difficulties in the way of their being acquired by the United States. He said the Chinese on the islands were on the increase, coolie labor was increasing, and suppose the United States should acquire them it would only get a race of Chinese coolies and half breeds. The people of his section were more interested in the defeat of the bill than any of the United States, besides, to take the duty off rice would be to diminish the price below cost of production in this country, and 80,000 people were dependent on production of rice in South Carolina, Georgia and Louisiana, and the interests of all the people would be injured by the passage of this bill.

Morrill then addressed the Senate in opposition to the bill, and said, it had been argued by the senator from California that there was something of honor involved in the passage of the resolution at present on account of previous notification of the treaty. He, Morrill, held that the Senate was independent of the executive, as it was of the House, and in this treaty it was expressly provided that it should not go into effect until necessary legislation passed Congress to carry it into effect. He argued the passage of the bill would act disastrously upon the production of sugar and rice in the South, and he would do nothing to strike down the interests of our Southern brethren. Instead of discouraging the growth of sugar in the South, Congress should by every possible means encourage it. He thought this might be considered one of the worst bargains ever presented to the American Senate.

Hitchcock moved to lay aside, pending business, and take up resolution of the House providing for adjournment at 4 o'clock.

Sargent appealed to the Senator not to press that motion. He thought a vote could be reached on the Hawaiian bill in a short time by working along without recess, and he had no doubt that the session could be terminated by midnight.

Hitchcock then withdrew his motion.

Logan, of Illinois, spoke in favor of the bill to carry the Hawaiian treaty into effect. He argued the effect of it would be to Americanize those islands. He spoke of their importance as an outpost in the Pacific in case of a foreign war, and argued that the bill should be considered in that point of view. He was not disposed to show how many five cent pieces would be kept out of the treasury if this bill should be passed, as there were questions in it of more importance.

Boutwell spoke in favor and said, while he was not in favor of annexing those islands now, he desired to see them in such condition that when their present rulers disappeared there could be established there a republican government controlled by Americans. If this bill should be rejected Congress would force these people away and force them to go to England, France, or some other country for such treaty.

West, in reply to Logan, argued if these islands were needed as a military outpost they should be bought. He was opposed to giving away money of the people as this bill proposed. He denied that any advantage would be attained in a military point of view by the passage of this bill.

Edmunds said he would hesitate before he took any steps for annexation of outlying posts on either side of the American government. It involved too much for American liberty. If any of the islands should be annexed to the Union, these people would insist on making laws for the whole American people, and their inhabitants not being homogeneous with our people, he would not consent to any such thing.

Morrill submitted an amendment providing that the treaty should be abrogated when any condition contained in the 2d and 4th articles should not be faithfully complied with by His Majesty the King of the Hawaiian Islands; rejected.

Gordon said it was his purpose to have spoken on the bill at length, but he was physically unable to do so. He protested against the passage of a law to carry into effect a treaty so partial in legislation and unjust to the people of one section of the country. One objection existing against this measure as a matter of policy, is that it aims a death blow at the interests of one section of the country, and is of doubtful constitutional propriety, and therefore should be rejected. He knew the southern race and sugar planters, and no people on this continent were more capable of self sacrificing patriotism than they were. They were in favor of free trade, but was it surprising that they opposed a bill which proposed to single out of all our productions those two upon which they solely depended. He must say it was not consistent with that equality provided by the constitution and formation of the American Union, much less was it just to try this experiment on a people who by the vicissitudes of a war had been made poorer than any other were before. What guarantee was there in the bill that there would be admitted only productions of the Hawaiian islands. He argued that there would be poured into San Francisco more rice and sugar from Cuba, China and elsewhere than the Hawaiian Islands would ever be worth. He was amazed that the proposition of the senator from Vermont should have been rejected. In his opinion in less than twelve months there would be hogsheads of sugar grown on the island of Cuba and tierces of rice grown in China enter into our ports under the frank of King Kalakua. If this bill should become law it would create a panic among the planters of the South, who would see that their crops would not be profitable and they might be abandoned. He thought it would be wise to postpone the bill until the crops should be gathered. He moved to postpone further consideration of the bill until the second Tuesday of December next; rejected.

The bill was then read a third time and passed: yeas 26, nays 12. Booth voted in the affirmative.

Edmunds moved to take up the House joint resolution for a constitutional amendment against appropriations for sectarian schools. After a long debate the amendment was rejected—yeas 27, nays 15, not a two thirds affirmative vote. It was a strong party vote and in detail was as follows:

Yeas—Allison, Anthony, Booth, Boutwell, Burnside, Cameron, Bruce, [illegible], Christiancy, Clayton, Conkling, Cragin, Edmunds, Ferry, Frelinghuysen, Harvey, Jones of Nevada, Logan, McMillan, Mitchell, Morrill, Morton, Oglesby, Paddock, Patterson, Sargent, Spencer, Wadleigh and West.

Nays—Bogy, Cockrell, Cooper, Davis, Eaton, Gordon, Jones of Florida, Kelly, Kernan, McCreery, McDonald, Maxey, Norwood, Randolph and Stevenson.

Windom called up the conference report on the Indian appropriation bill; agreed to without discussion.

Logan called up House bill to authorize the President to accept the services of volunteers to aid in suppressing the Indians. He submitted an amendment in the nature of a substitute authorizing the President to increase such companies of cavalry regiments as he may think proper to one hundred men for each, providing that the total number of men shall not exceed [illegible], and appropriating [illegible] to pay the expenses of such increase; agreed to; yeas 27, nays 14. The bill then passed.

Spencer offered a resolution directing the secretary of the Senate to pay the clerks of the several standing committees of the Senate [illegible] for August.

Sargent objected, the resolution being contrary to law, which expressly provides that their compensation shall [illegible] during the session only.

The Senate then at [illegible] took a recess.

Senate resumed [illegible] at [illegible] o'clock, and Windom moved to take up the House resolution providing for final adjournment of Congress and amended it so as to adjourn to-morrow at [illegible] o'clock P. M. Several senators objected and the motion was withdrawn.

House.

Continuation of Monday's Proceedings.

Randall denied the President's [illegible] that the revenue had been crippled by the appropriation bills. The reduction of internal revenue districts to 100, which the House proposed, was abandoned, and the number inserted by statute and [illegible] by the department 131 had been provided for.

Kasson defended the President's message. He said the bill specially directed the President to spend certain amounts on each work. The President would be violating the constitution, but the language was not mandatory.

Holman protested that the President was not bound to spend all the money appropriated by any bill, especially such a one.

Kasson—You stand by the President?

Holman—I stand by that doctrine which has been the doctrine of the Democracy in this House in all past history.

[illegible] tried to get the floor in reply, but was declared out of order, and took his seat [illegible] in an angry tone.

The message was then referred to the committee on commerce.

Recess till 8 o'clock.

At the evening session Banks took the floor and addressed the House in explanation and advocacy of his bill to utilize the products of gold and silver mines. Regarding the bill known as Bland's silver bill he asserted that to suppose that the debts of Europe and America were to be paid only in gold coin was to suppose an impossibility. Nobody believed it, nobody expected it. The idea of a metallic currency was a contrivance by which a small portion of the people in Europe and America who had become or were to become, possessors of securities for these debts might send the property of the people from their hands into their own. The calculation was that there were some seven thousand millions of gold and silver coin in existence, of which three hundred and seventy millions were gold and five thousand two hundred and fifty millions silver. To reduce that coin to a single gold standard would be to take away half of the precious metal from all financial and commercial transactions, to double the purchasing value of gold and to diminish by 100 per cent all species of property in the hands of the people. He supported that bill solely with the purpose of making the silver dollar equal in quality and fineness to the gold dollar. The immediate resumption of specie payment was entirely out of the question and certainly if specie were reduced to the element of gold, it would be impossible for a long time to make the payment. The public debt of the country, National, State and municipal was supposed to be between ten thousand and twelve thousand million dollars so that there was not enough wealth and there was too much indebtedness to permit the hope that specie payment could be resumed, however just and proper such a measure might be. The true policy therefore was to dismiss for the present any reliance on the accumulation of coin and to use the notes issued by the government based on gold and silver in the depositories of the government. That was what this bill proposed; notes would be circulated in the hands of the people and the government and the gold and silver would remain in the country. It had been said that this was inflation, but inflation was wind and there was no wind in gold and silver. It was only an irredeemable and worthless currency that there could be too much of.

On reassembling there was a great struggle to gain the consideration of the speaker. Randall finally succeeded and moved that the House take a recess until 9 to-morrow, as the Senate could not under the rules take up the conference report on the Indian appropriation bill until to-morrow.

Banning desired to have the Senate bill passed for the increase of the cavalry force to serve in the Sioux country.

Confusion and disorder ensued when Randall again expressed his belief that the Senate would not adjourn until 9 this evening. A vote being taken, no quorum appeared present, and as no business can be transacted without a quorum a call of the House on Bland's silver bill followed, after which Randall insisted on his motion which was not agreed to.

Kasson then took the floor and yielded to allow Banning, who asked unanimous consent to report the Senate bill to increase the cavalry force in the Sioux war.

Bradford objected.

Kasson then made a political speech, prefacing it by expressing his regret that the objection came from the Democratic side. The bill was designed to save the army from further annihilation and save frontier settlers from murder by savages. He reviewed Tilden's political history to show that in time of danger he was nowhere on the record as a friend of the Union.

Springer asked if he meant to say Tilden was a secessionist.

Kasson replied that he was a member of the society for diffusing peaceful knowledge, whose literature was comprehend and disparaging to war. In any part of the West, and in Illinois, men who uttered such doctrines had their heads in blackberry bushes.

Springer, excitedly—"Does the gentleman assert that Gov. Tilden was ever a secessionist, or a disunionist?"

Kasson—I dare assert it, and let the gentleman deny it.

Springer—I do deny it.

Luttrell asked where Kasson was during the war.

Kasson—I was on this floor voting appropriation bills to maintain the army which fought the men whom you support. [Applause.]

Luttrell—That was a much safer place than the army.

Kasson went on to quote Vallandigham's opinion of the war, connecting Tilden's name with it.

Hewitt—Does not the gentleman know that Gov. Tilden voted against that resolution?

Kasson—So far as the record goes, I know the contrary. Tilden has inherited the character of Martin Van Buren—he used words and phrases to disguise principles.

Kasson proceeded, declaring Tilden's sympathies were with the South. He referred to the famous circular in the New York election of 1868, but Cox and Clymer said Tilden denied all responsibility for that. Kasson continued speaking of Tilden as having a record which contrasted unfavorably with that of Hayes, the Republican candidate, and in the same way Hendricks' contrasted with Wheeler's.

Cox, replying to Kasson, characterized him as a defender of Belknap and the apologist of post-traders.

Kasson called him to order for stating untruths.

Cox—I say he lied about Gov. Tilden. [Applause and excitement.] Cox crossing in an excited manner to the Republican side, holding a paper on which he had Tilden's own denial of the statement.

Hoar desired Cox's words to be taken down, which was done by the official reporter and read to the House.

Randall moved that Cox be allowed to proceed.

Hoar desired to offer a substitute that Cox be called to the bar of the House and censured. The Speaker decided, however, that Randall's motion had preference. No quorum voted on Randall's motion, so Cox could not continue; but a motion to adjourn was lost, and at 11.30 this was the condition of affairs: Cox tried to explain, but cries of order, order, prevented.

Terry responded, they would stay till daylight.

Banning moved to non-concur in the Senate amendment to House bill for volunteers to aid in suppressing Indian difficulties. He explained that the House bill provided for 5,000 volunteer cavalry, and that the Senate amendment provided for an increase of the regular cavalry regiments to 100 men for each company. He asserted that the existing law already authorized that increase, but if men were needed for the Sioux war they were needed immediately and could be got on the frontier where men knew the Indian character and how to fight Indians.

Garfield and Thornburg favored the Senate amendment. After some further discussion the amendment was non concurred in.

Banning then moved to suspend the rules and pass the bill authorizing the President to accept 5,000 volunteer cavalry for six months, and appropriating $1,000,000 therefor; adopted, and the bill passed.

Randall moved to suspend the rules and pass the bill for the payment of a full month's wages to discharged employes of the engraving and printing bureau, the amount being $22,000; agreed to and the bill passed.

10 o'clock.—A call of the House was in progress. The Democrats want to give Cox a chance and the Republicans oppose it.

The House, at 2 o'clock, is still in session without having accomplished anything except voting to adjourn and answering to calls of the House.

The Wagner Musical Festival.

BAYREUTH, Aug 15.—The performance of the Walkyren began at 4 P. M. and ended at 10:30, with intervals of an hour between the acts. This representation made a greater impression even than that of Rheingold. The first act especially produced a profound sensation, and at the close of the opera the effect, when the entire background of the stage was filled with a sea of fire, was wonderful. The enthusiasm of the audience could not be restrained, and the performance was repeatedly interrupted by bursts of applause. At the end of the acts the leading performers were loudly called for, but declined to respond before the curtain, the composer and artists considering that each appearance would violate the unity of the representation. Emperor William was present and remained until the close of the opera. On entering and leaving his box he was greeted with cheers.

The Supposed Trout Creek Murderers Arrested.

NEVADA, Aug. 14.—The case of F. Wilbert, G. W. Mershon, Jas. Reed, Frank Wilson and J. O'Neal were before the grand jury to-day. The parties were charged with having committed the Trout Creek murder near Truckee on the 17th of June. The arrests were made upon the statement of Cal McCullough, an ex-convict, who claims to have been one of the murderers. Capt. Deal, Ben. Harrison and J. T. Cross made the arrests last week. No resistance was offered, but great excitement prevailed in Truckee. On Wednesday the officers went to Lake Tahoe and arrested George W. Getchell, who also confessed to having been one of the gang, and whose sworn statement corroborates McCullough's. Their statements have not been made public, but are substantially as follows: The Caucasian League met on the night in question, and at close of the meeting Getchell, McCullough and the others above named, went to the cabin of Frank Wilson, procured arms and ammunition and proceeded to the China camp on Trout Creek. One of the party set the cabins of the Chinese on fire; two others did the shooting, and the rest kept guard. All the details of the plot, and of the manner in which it was executed, are given in the statement.

On the other hand, a full and complete defense is claimed by Wilbert, Mershon, Reed, Wilson and O'Neal. Over 40 witnesses for the defense came down from Truckee by consent of the prosecuting attorney and at the request of the grand jurors. All the evidence for the State and nearly all for the defense is before the grand jury whose decision will probably be rendered to-morrow. The defense assert there is no foundation for the statements of McCullough and Getchell, that Getchell was on a drunken carouse on the night of the murder, and did not leave town; that his statement is, therefore, false in every particular. The prisoners, each of them, claim to have the best evidence as to their whereabouts and innocence. The connection of the league with the crime is stoutly denied by all its members, and its president, Hamlet Davis, has come from Truckee as a witness. As the testimony before the grand jury is kept secret, only general reports as to the evidence can be had. Wilbert, Reid, Mershon, O'Neal and Wilson are old residents of Truckee, and have hitherto borne good reputations. Wilbert and Mershon have families.

THE BALHAM MYSTERY.

POSTHUMOUS CRITICISM OF THE LONDON TIMES' FINANCIAL ARTICLE.

[From the Resident Correspondent of the World.]

LONDON, July 13.—The second inquiry into the cause of the death of Mr. Bravo—the affair known as the "Balham Mystery"—began on Tuesday morning before the Coroner for East Surrey, and so strangely are comedy and tragedy mixed up in this case that yesterday morning, when the first day's proceedings appeared in the papers, all the newspaper-reading people in London, except those who read only the Times, enjoyed a jolly laugh. Mr. Bravo, you remember, was a young barrister who had married a rich and pretty widow. He died suddenly, and under very suspicious circumstances. A post-mortem made it clear that he had been poisoned, but the coroner's inquest was hurried, and a verdict unsatisfactory to his friends was returned. They—or some of them—believed that he had been murdered and that the poison had been administered to him by some one in his house, and this second inquest was the consequence. The first witness on this new inquest was Mr. Bravo, the stepfather of the deceased, whose name was not Bravo, but who had taken the name of his stepfather, by whom he had been educated and taken care of since he was an infant, and who had been always as fond of him as he could have been had he been his father according to the flesh. Mr. Bravo, after relating to the jury some facts concerning his relations with the deceased and showing how complete was the confidence and affection which existed between them, produced some letters which the deceased had written to him and to his mother a few days before his death. Capital letters they were, bubbling over with fun and sparkling with wit. But the first sentence in the first of them was what caused all the newspaper reading people except those who read only the Times to giggle. The deceased had been in the habit of speculating a little on the Stock Exchange, and he had his own ideas on the subject of Turkish securities. So on the 9th of April, 11 days before his death, he writes to his stepfather: "My Dear Old Governor: I wish Mr. Walter would get you to write the Times' money article instead of that idiot Crump. He does far more mischief than Labouchere, to whom may all evil happen." This is what made London laugh. For when, after the enforced retirement of the famous Mr. Sampson from the position which he had held for twenty five years as money editor of the Times, Mr. Crump was installed in his stead, there was much surprise felt in financial and commercial circles, and Mr. Crump (who had formerly been connected with the Pall Mall Gazette) soon converted that surprise into disgust or alarm by the very peculiar manner in which he wrote his articles. His rule was simple—wherever he saw a head he struck at it; he assailed everything and praised nothing. The Times was just then smarting under the disclosures which had been made concerning Mr. Sampson, and so anxious was Mr. Delane to avoid all risk of such doings in the future that the city office of the paper was closed, and the money article was dated from "Printing House Square," as it is to-day. Mr. Crump's course brought upon him much odium and probably poor Bravo only uttered a very general sentiment when he wrote of him as "that idiot Crump." The Times, with a tender solicitude for Mr. Crump's feelings, suppresses in its report of the inquest this passage of Bravo's letter, but it thus deprived its readers of a good laugh. As for the inquest itself it has not proceeded far enough to disclose any new facts of importance, save that the deceased, before his marriage, had kept a mistress. After his marriage, he had remained on friendly terms with her, and had borrowed from her £500, on which he paid her a good interest. There was no trouble about this money, and at any moment he could have repaid it. Since his death, his stepfather has repaid it. The whole tenor of the evidence on the inquest, however, as given by Mr. Bravo's friends, is to strengthen the suspicion that he was poisoned by foul means.

The house known as Widow Markham's, near the 12-Mile House, Umatilla county, was burned to the ground on Wednesday, August 2d, consuming the entire contents, belonging to a family by the name of Griffith, whose every piece of household furniture, and clothing except that the family were wearing was destroyed. How the fire originated no one knew.

Isaac Nail, says the Pendleton paper, of the firm of Robbins & Nail, placer miners on Trail creek, sold his interest in the Company's mine a few days since for $12,000, to a company of miners from Baker City. The new company will immediately invest $3,000 in the purchase of 13-inch iron pipe and do a more extensive business in the mine than heretofore.

Under date of July 29th a correspondent at Camp Curry, Grant county, informs us of a fatal accident near that place. A man named Jesse Cook, formerly of Douglas county, went out to catch his horse, which had a long rope attached to it. It is supposed that Mr. Cook coiled the rope up and laid it on his arm to lead the horse home, and that the horse became frightened and started to run, entangling the rope about the man's arms and body. He was dragged about half a mile. When found life was almost extinct, and he never spoke afterwards. He was much respected, and his horrible death greatly deplored by his neighbors.

David Miller, of the Meadows, Umatilla county, met with a severe accident on Thursday of last week. Manning Willis and he were in company returning from Watson & Lahr's sawmill, when, in the vicinity of Mr. Carney's, the team of Mr. Miller's became frightened at a Chinaman. They wheeled to one side and broke the pole of the wagon; they then commenced rearing and plunging with the wagon yet attached. Mr. Miller caught one of the horses by the bit, which reared and came down with both fore feet on the head of Mr. Miller, making two ugly flesh wounds, one on the back of the head and the other in front.

The East Oregonian of Pendleton, under date of Aug. 12, says: Sam Parrish of Portland, representing large capital, has purchased from Isaac Nail, Isaac Klopp, Uncle Billy Moore, Harry McCann, Mr McDonald, Mr Burnham and Harry Robbins, the entire Monumental Silver Quartz mine on Granite creek, paying therefor $72,000. The new company have plenty of capital and mean business. Before "snow-flies" a reduction mill will be erected at the mine. The deed for the mine has been executed with the exception of Uncle Billy Moore, who will to day meet Mr Parrish in Pendleton to execute the conveyance. The purchase of this mine in this county and the erection of a quartz mill thereon, will give an impetus to all business in this section, the west and south portion of the county being the base of all supplies. It behooves the people who will be benefited by this enterprise to see to it that the Granite creek road is so improved that the machinery and the general travel will have no difficulty in going to and from Granite and Trail creek mines. Owing to the condition of the road Mr. Parrish now contemplates transporting his machinery from Umatilla by way of Baker City, Auburn, Ft. Sumpter and Independence to the mine. This will necessitate about 100 miles extra travel. The improvement of the road referred to would obviate the necessity of the circuitous route of travel and expense, and at the same time be an improvement certain to be made at no distant day; therefore it ought to be done immediately.

The shipment of fruit across the Blue mountains from Walla Walla is not a bad speculation after all. The Watchman says because the last winter was very mild at Walla Walla the farmers there are putting up much butter this summer.

Walla Walla is blessed. Not a single case of smallpox, no musquitoes, no grasshoppers, no famine and no vote at the Presidential election.

An order, forbidding the absence of enlisted men from the garrison at Walla Walla without a written permit is rigidly enforced. Nothing like discipline.

The grain crop in the Prickly Pear valley, Montana, it is estimated, will not exceed a fifth of a crop this year. Cause—the pestiferous grasshopper.

A man named Green, living in Tacoma, for selling liquor to Indians was sentenced by Judge Lewis, last week, to fourteen months in the penitentiary.

The Walla Walla farmers are getting their grain to the river as rapidly as possible. The cars make two trips a day. One thousand tons were at Wallula last week.

The Boise Statesman says the people of Idaho are in favor of Hon. W. A. Goulder for Delegate to Congress, and it now remains to be seen who the politicians favor.

A large sale of town lots in Seattle and lands back of the city, was made last week. Philo Remington was the vender and W. C. Squires the purchaser. The total consideration was $55,000.

The Seattle Tribune says: The floodgates of heaven were apparently thrown wide open this morning, when for hours the rain descended in torrents and formed rivers in every hillside, drenching sidewalks and overflowing drains.

The Watchman says: "We are glad to [illegible] that wheat at Walla Walla is slightly [illegible]. Thirty-five cents is paid now for clean wheat, and flour fell from 25 to 50 [illegible] per barrel. We don't think it will come [illegible] $3 per barrel; still there is no telling. We only wish wheat was worth a dollar a [illegible]."

An immigrant train, numbering 5 [illegible] and 15 persons in all, passed up to the Palouse country last week. The Montana Herald says: "A couple [illegible] weeks ago Richard McNeil, of Park [illegible] bought a half interest in a placer claim [illegible] Park, for $1,500. The clean-up for this [illegible] week's run was $4,400, of excellent gold. McNeil's one half of this amount, after [illegible] out expenses, left him ground clear and [illegible] added to his bank account. That is [illegible] thing better than a trip to the Black Hills."

The Seattle Tribune says: There are [illegible] six million feet of sawlogs at [illegible] Snohomish county, all rafted and [illegible] to be towed by the steamers to the mills. It is [illegible] dom there are so many there at one [illegible] probably never were more. Fires were kindled for the [illegible] time in the past week, and were very comfortable."

A Bismarck dispatch states that Sitting Bull's band is underestimated by Sherman and Sheridan. Before it was joined by Crazy Horse it numbered over 6,000 warriors. Col. Burke, the agent at Standing Rock, who is well informed, estimates the Indians at 10,000 warriors. In the battle with Custer, Sitting Bull's Uncpapas lost 150 men, and the other bands in similar proportions. Crazy Horse is believed to have been killed. The [illegible] Indians, at Fort Lincoln, mourned several days over Custer's death, cutting themselves with knives and exhibiting genuine sorrow. The Indians at Fort Peck agency also exhibit great sorrow. The agencies are all out of supplies, and the Indians are forced to hunt or starve.

The Walla Walla Statesman says: "A party of immigrants hailing from Neora, Kansas, drove up Main street, Thursday morning. There were three families named respectively Stewart and King, and 14 persons in the train. They had four wagons and twelve horses, and altogether a very superior outfit. The party left Kansas the 15th of May, and made the trip through in comfort and safety. The women of the train came to Kelton by railroad, and was there joined by the men who preceded them. They report that at Kelton they had very unfavorable accounts of this country, and strong efforts were made to induce them to head for California, but they had relatives in the Palouse country, and preferred to rely on their representations.

WEDNESDAY MORNING AUGUST 16 1876

THE UNITED DEMOCRACY.

Gov. Hendricks wrote a member of Congress when it was rumored that the effort of Mr Tilden to prevent the repeal of the resumption act were likely to succeed the following letter:

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. July 4 1876.

My Dear Sir: A repeal of the resumption clause in almost any form will elect the State ticket and carry the Indianapolis district. If you obtain a report from the committee it is necessary to give the assurance that it shall pass without amendment; that assurance should be given unless the condition or qualification of the repeal be really [illegible]. The form of repeal is not now very important, for the people understand that the [illegible] of obtaining an [illegible] is [illegible]. It is not [illegible] to retain a per cent of gold in the treasury. Can it be fixed that those who are in favor of repeal [illegible] give the committee the assurance of passing a bill as reported if that be necessary to carry a report? The repeal is the important proposition; the form is not so important. Truly,

T. A. HENDRICKS.

The New York Times correspondent at Washington got hold of this letter somehow and published it, whereupon the Herald pronounced it a forgery. Then a Herald reporter called upon Governor Hendricks at Saratoga about it and was frankly told the letter was genuine. The Herald having been thus set right acknowledged its error, reprinted the letter, with the following pointed comments:

We now learn that at a time when Gov. Tilden was trying to rally the honest people of the country on the platform of reform and honest money, Gov. Hendricks was striving to break down the resumption act. This act is the solemn pledge of Congress to pay its obligations at a certain time. To repeal that act is to intimate that we are in the habit of making promises only to break them. The repeal would offend the honest sentiment of the nation, but it would gratify some soft money lunatics in Indiana, and help to elect Congressmen like Landers and Voorhees to the House. It shows that Gov. Hendricks is not loyal to his ticket; that he means to press his views whether Tilden likes them or not; that he went into this canvass as a candidate for the Presidency; that he means to be so in fact if not in name.

We do not see how Gov. Hendricks can remain on the ticket. He is not wanted. His course has been buntinous to the last degree. Gov. Tilden should compel his withdrawal and give us a candidate like Thurman. He should then take command of his canvass.

Thus we see in what perfect unity the Democratic brethren are dwelling together. Tilden and Hendricks at cross purposes on the most vital issues of the times, and a leading paper in support of the former goes so far as to demand the retirement of the latter. But Mr Hendricks will not retire from the ticket. He and Mr Tilden will retire from the public gaze simultaneously after the Ides of November. Till then the country will have to witness this struggle of contradictions and humiliations in the Democratic column. It is the first time in the history of American politics that a party has gone into a national contest with its candidates plotting and counter-plotting for the destruction of each other, but it is fitting culmination to the career of small expedients and great follies that have characterized the course of the Democracy ever since the close of the war. The shifts and pretenses and shams which have been resorted to by the leaders of that party since its ancient principles were stamped out by the people and abandoned by its leaders could hardly lead to any better end than that which we now behold. The increasing improbability of a Democratic victory in November increases in a corresponding degree the probability that the party itself will not survive the defeat. There is much room to believe this will be the last race the Democracy will ever make.

A SUITABLE GOVERNMENT FOR THE DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA.

Mr Spencer, of Alabama, has introduced into the Senate a joint resolution for a committee of three Senators and three Representatives to prepare and report to the next session of Congress "a suitable form of government for the District of Columbia." How many suitable forms of government have been devised for the District of Columbia at one time and another, it is impossible to say, but it might be approximately stated by mentioning the number of Congresses that have convened since the District was segregated from the adjoining States and placed under the exclusive control of the Federal Government. For the last half dozen years the halls of Congress have been kept in a perfect din with propositions and discussions relating to that subject. Every Congress tinkers the government of the District to make it "suitable," and every Congress finds an unsuitable government there. If some one having sufficient influence to make himself heard in Congress would suggest the experiment of an honest government as the most suitable that could be devised, he would do a good thing for the District and for the nation. The novelty of such an experiment might cause some difficulty in getting it introduced but we are satisfied that a year or two of trial would demonstrate that such a government would be the most suitable one that could be invented. By all means let Senator Spencer's resolution pass, and then let there be such a committee appointed as will have the courage to urge an honest government for the District. Such a government would be eminently suitable, provided the moral constitution of the people of the District is sufficiently vigorous to withstand the shock of so great a change. It is worth trying at all events.

Some [illegible] says the [illegible] T[illegible] [illegible]

[illegible]

...mined to send out some polecat ferrets which he assumes will be even more valuable for mere friends.

As political feeling warms up it becomes apparent that Richard Williams will not only receive the united support of the Republicans but a large number of Democratic votes also. A gentleman from one of the valley counties who is familiar with public sentiment in his county [illegible] that [illegible] Democrats [illegible] but that [illegible] Williams will [illegible] the [illegible]. The lessons of the last few years in voting for the best men are [illegible]. The [illegible] sentiment which has [illegible] the popular mind [illegible] not be ignored and the party that presents the most eligible candidate [illegible] will be found in the Congressional election this fall.

At the last meeting of the Common Council the Mayor [illegible] several nominations for the municipal offices which he is required by the charter to fill with the consent of the Council. In making his selections of men for the places he appears to have pursued the wise course of naming persons well qualified for the duties of the respective offices to which they were nominated without regard to political affiliation, and to have adopted the wise policy of retaining a tried and faithful official. We should think the Council would not hesitate about confirming these appointments. The city has had a much better government since the non-partisan policy has been in operation, and the Council should cordially second the proposition implied in these appointments by the Mayor to continue the policy which has produced better and cheaper local administration.

Mr Tilden, it is said by the New York press, is trying very hard to get Comptroller Green nominated for Governor of New York. Mr Green has never shown any marked executive ability and has no particular qualifications for the office of Governor. But he is a former business partner of Mr Tilden's, which it is supposed, is the reason of the desire of the latter for his nomination. This is the first illustration the country has had since Mr Tilden's nomination for President of his idea of civil service reform. If Mr Tilden expects to run the government in the interest of his former partners and particular friends his administration would not be much improvement on the brother in law and cousin system of which so much complaint has been made.

The New Haven Union professes to have information which can be relied upon, that Fog Horn Allen does not intend to support Tilden and Hendricks, but will give his influence to Cooper and Carey, the greenback inflation candidates. It remains to be seen how much the Democratic hermaphroditists will lose by the defection of the great Fog Horn, but he is no small man in his party. So far as a personal endorsement goes there are few men in the Democratic party whose support is worth more than Allen's in the Western States and especially in Ohio.

Debate in the English parliament on the Winslow case still continues. The Liberals insist that the position of Secretary Fish is in accordance with the practice of the British government hitherto and that there was no occasion for a departure from that position without previous notice to the United States. The Liberals of England seem to have a decided penchant for getting upon the wrong side of the question.

The news of the battle between General Terry's forces and the hostile Sioux is confirmed. Sitting Bull is a running bull now with Terry in pursuit. This defeat following so soon after the slaughter of Custer and his men will probably check the impulse of the Sioux not yet engaged in hostilities to join the fighting bands and render unnecessary the increase of the forces operating in that region.

There appears to be diversity of opinion as to whether the trade dollar is a legal tender. By the law authorizing its coinage it was made a tender for amounts not exceeding five dollars just the same as the other silver coins. After [illegible] its legal tender quality was taken away so that it is not a legal tender. Its value is simply what it is worth as a silver bar.

The Tribune says "doubts are expressed as to the genuineness of Hendricks' conversion to hard money views." We have not heard any doubts expressed as to the genuineness of Tilden's conversion to rag money views.

Saratoga is to celebrate on the 13th of October the centennial anniversary of the surrender of Burgoyne. Longfellow has been selected for poet and ex-Governor Seymour for orator of the occasion.

Henry Watterson, editor of the Louisville Courier Journal, has just taken his seat in Congress having been elected to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Representative Parsons of Kentucky.

Some punster who has been commenting on the career of Mr Tilden with his fraud boasting on the reform question says there should be an h in his first name. It should be not Sam but Sham.

CITY.

A Fatal Shot—Distressing Death.—Last Monday the little settlement on Still water a tributary of the Cowlitz river about fifteen miles north of Castle Rock was startled by the report of the accidental shooting and death of a young man named Justice Booth son of Henry and Isabella Booth who reside near the place mentioned. It appears that a party of young men had gone out to [illegible] a deer and the boy whose life was so soon to terminate in company with two other boys had taken his stand on a drift in the creek. From the nature of the wound he is supposed to have been standing on a log with the butt of the gun resting between his feet and the muzzle grasped with one or both hands. The gun must have slipped from its resting place and striking the hammer against the log discharged the weapon. The ball (weighing an ounce) took effect in the forehead and ranging up and backward shattered the whole top of the head, producing death instantly. After the fatal accident the body of the unfortunate young man was conveyed to the nearest house and the sad intelligence conveyed to his parents. The accident occurred about 10 A M. While the distracted parents and sympathizing neighbors were assembled at the house where the mutilated remains were lying the dwelling of Mr Booth which had been left but a short time caught fire and was burned to the ground. Everything was destroyed. Only a plow and wagon and the clothes which the family had on them at the time escaped the general destruction. The remains of the unfortunate young man were buried on the day following his tragical and untimely end. Mr. and Mrs Booth and the surviving members of the family have the unreserved sympathy of the community in their double misfortune. We understand that the neighbors will contribute whatever is necessary and render all the assistance in their power.

Broke Jail.—The evening contemporary learns that yesterday morning about nine o'clock, John McGowan James Morris and [illegible] P. Archibald confined in the Clackamas county jail upon charges of grand larceny succeeded in breaking jail and getting out. Upon making their egress from durance vile they noticed some boys watching them and being assured they would give the alarm ran hastily up the bluff stairs and made for the woods. The alarm was given when the sheriff went in quick pursuit and after a short search succeeded in overhauling John McGowan who was in such a state of health as to prevent him keeping up with the others. The other two men were still at large at last accounts, but will in all probability be arrested. McGowan and Morris were arrested by Chief Lappeus in this city on the 28th of June, and turned over to the Clackamas county authorities to answer to a charge of robbing a house in the Philip Foster settlement.

Bulletin Office Sold.—In obedience to a writ issued from the State circuit court the property belonging to the Bulletin Printing and Publishing Company, including the newspaper office, job office, steam boiler engine, etc, etc connected with the establishment was sold to the highest bidder in satisfaction of several judgments. Mr A B Richardson that popular knight of the hammer officiated as master of ceremonies. The sale commenced at 10 o clock A M, and was continued until a few minutes past 12. The following are the names of the purchasers and the total prices paid by them for the articles bought: J Sorensen $161, Schwab & Anderson, $35, E Elkeles $10 50, W Lair Hill $7 25, Jos. Simon $8 50, S L Stone $11, T [illegible] Odyeal, $2,230, Wm Barnes, $3, G A [illegible], $300, N Nathan, $75, Oregonian Publishing Co., $4 704 50, A G Walling $45 50, [illegible] Stark, $2 50, M Mendlesson, 25c. Total amount of sale $7,510 25.

Death of S S Slater.—Mr H D Sanborn received a letter last evening from Lewiston in which the writer says: "It is with feelings of sorrow that I announce to you and through you, to his numerous friends, the death of Hon Seth S Slater. He died this morning (Aug 11th) at 10 30 A M. His disease was dropsy." Deceased was an old citizen of Portland where he resided for many years. He was at one time recorder and acting mayor of this city, and took a very active and prominent part in the organization of one of the first fire companies of Portland. Many of the old citizens of Portland will remember Mr Slater—the bare mention of his name brings vividly to their minds pleasant memories and associations long connected with the past—and sincerely regret that he has forever passed from the familiar walks of men.

Campers.—A gentleman who came up from the seaside yesterday, where he has been rusticating for a few days past, furnishes us with the following list of campers from this city: A. N. Gambell and family, Geo H Himes and family, Mrs. Davidson and children, Prof [illegible] and family, E J Northrup and family, Chas. Prindle and family, J F Atwater and family, J M. Virgil and family, Mrs Jas Steel and son, Mrs Stansborough and children, Mrs. A H Morgan, Prof S W King. These persons are camped on the North Beach. The following seasiders have pitched their tents on Ilwaco Bay: Mrs J C [illegible], D. M C Gault, Mrs R I Durham, Thos [illegible] Wilson and family, Mrs M R Abrams and family and Mr Seth L Pope. The gentleman informs us that these campers are as happy as clams when the tide comes flowing in.

Death from Smallpox.—We are in receipt of a letter written at San Francisco bearing date of Aug 2d which conveys the sad intelligence of the death in that city of Miss Una Beal, only child of C and I A Beal recently of Portland. Miss Beal, the letter states died in San Francisco of smallpox on the 30th of July, aged 20 years. Deceased has resided in Portland for a number of years and was held in the highest esteem by a host of friends who will be pained to learn of her death. Miss Beal was a most estimable young lady and her memory will long be cherished by those who knew her in life.

State Teachers' Institute.—At the State Teachers Institute to be held at Salem on the 22d inst., S. W. King city superintendent of the Portland public schools will make the response to J T Gregg's address of welcome. Mr A. J Anderson will deliver a lecture on Natural Science in Schools. I W Pratt will explain The Cause of Failure in School Discipline, Mrs Mary Thompson M D will lecture on School Hygiene. Mrs P L Price of East Portland, will read an essay and the eloquent Syl C Simpson will deliver a lecture. The meeting promises being very well attended.

To be Launched.—Promptly at 4 o clock this afternoon the new tug of Messrs Holman & Gilman will be launched from the ways a short distance below Greenwich Dock. Every preparation will be completed and at the hour designated it is expected to cut the ropes which bind the "cradle" to the ways and allow the craft to glide gracefully down into the water. It will be a sight well worth the walk and will no doubt be witnessed by a large crowd of spectators. As soon as launched the tug will be towed over to Albina where the boiler and machinery is to be placed in the hull.

Alarm of Fire.—Last evening an alarm of fire was sounded about 7 o which brought out the b'hoys in quick order. The alarm originated from the roof of the Willamette Iron Works catching fire. The engines arrived at the scene in a very few minutes after the alarm was given but [illegible] the services of none were required. A few buckets of water timely applied [illegible] the flames and saved the [illegible] had a good run and [illegible]

Portland is unusually healthful for this season of the year.

East Portland can soon boast of having two brick buildings.

The Sawtelle dramatic troupe will soon arrive in this city.

Not a single case of smallpox in the city so far as is known.

The City of Salem brought down a big freight yesterday.

Great preparations are in progress for the Turn Verein excursion.

Two weeks from next Monday and the State legislature will convene.

The old Bulletin office was sold out yesterday—stock, lock and barrel.

It is more than likely the Bonita will be withdrawn from night trips to Astoria.

A very large number of seasiders returned on the Hayward last evening from Astoria.

It was thirty seven days from the St Louis nominations till the appearance of the letters.

Mr. Scheuneman Lotts will deliver another lecture in German at Turn Halle this evening.

It is natural for base ballists to err. In fact if they did not err they would not be base ballists.

What is the matter with the devotees of field and aquatic sports. This is certainly a dull season in both.

That picturesque craft the Henrietta now lies beached on the eastern bank of the river to receive needed repairs.

Yesterday was the holy day of the assumption of the Blessed Virgin in the Catholic Church. It is the holy day of obligation.

Some of our exchanges state that Montgomery Queen's circus will soon be en route for Oregon for the purpose of doing the Fairs.

The brick buildings in process of construction give employment to a large number of men whom we like to see in our community.

Col H Clay Wood and Capt T A Sladen will start for Port Townsend this morning to which place they have been detailed for court martial duty.

At 15 minutes past 12 o clock this morning the steamer John L. Stephens arrived at this port from San Francisco bringing a full freight and a large list of passengers.

The Oregonian signal flag will be elevated to a more conspicuous position in future which will be of great advantage to all who desire to know of the arrival of the steamer at Astoria.

During S J McCormick's absence on the Sound his son Harry J will have charge of the pension agency, and may be found at the U S pension office, 41 First street, during business hours.

Will Bodman and friend returned yesterday from a pleasant trip to Sodaville where they left the Weatherford family and many others enjoying the pleasant scenes of the above locality.

Sam W Piercy the young tragedian is playing at Wood's Museum Philadelphia. He will shortly visit California it is said. Sweatman, the accomplished [illegible], is also performing in the same city.

Judging from the large volumes of smoke which were curling skyward yesterday afternoon, a heavy fire must have been raging in the timber some distance away in a northeasterly direction from the city.

Every other person whom we met on the way to the fire last evening imparted the information that an item was in prospect for us, as if we did not know as much. We will thank any one for items that we are not posted about.

CAN CHINAMEN BE NATURALIZED?

BENTON COUNTY Aug. 14 1876.

To the Editor of the Oregonian.

In reading the decision of the U S circuit court in the case of Matthias Chapman et al vs Fox Long et al published in the daily of the 3d inst I find that the learned judge who delivered the opinion uses the following language:

"All aliens including the Congo negro except the Mongolian race are permitted to become naturalized." Is there anything in the naturalization law as amended in 1874 to prevent a Chinaman from becoming naturalized on the same terms as a German and Irishman or any other alien?

FROM ASTORIA.

Occasional sends the following notes of interest:

Astoria at the present time presents a very lively appearance.

Any one who is familiar with the business formerly transacted here will be surprised at the rapid increase of trade.

The grand jury has been in session for a week and it is not yet known when its labors will be completed, but from the [illegible] it proves that they have not been idle.

The town has developed rapidly within the last few years [illegible] the fishing interests have [illegible] New buildings and wharves are constantly being constructed [illegible] and [illegible] kept pace with the progress of the young seaport.

Judge Shattuck is holding a term of the circuit court at present with a larger docket than has ever been known before in the history of this county. Court has been in constant session for a week and the probabilities are now that it will not close for another week.

The telegraph has ere this informed you of the death at his home on the Clatsop plains of the Hon. Solomon H Smith, State Senator from Clatsop, Columbia and Tillamook counties. Mr Smith was the oldest pioneer enrolled in the Astoria Pioneer Association and his death is a sad reminder that one by one the noble band of men who saved our territory to the United States are passing away. Mr Smith has been in feeble health for some time but it was only within the last few days that serious apprehensions were entertained for his safety. His death leaves a vacancy to be filled in the next legislature by special election. But little time is left to [illegible] the usual party machinery in motion as the legislature convenes in the early part of next month and consequently the politicians are already casting about for eligible candidates for the office before the last sad rites are paid to the remains of the departed Senator. It should not be inferred however because of this that there is any want of respect for the memory of the dead intended. On the contrary, the many regrets for his death and the kindly words spoken of him, which greet one's ears so often to day, bear witness to the esteem in which the old pioneer was held in this county and by all who knew him.

IN AND ABOUT UNITY.

A correspondent writing from Unity under date of 14th inst says:

Nothing very particular has transpired since Wednesday save the grand fishing match which came off on Sunday. Prof Pratt of your city was the champion bass and porgie catcher. Many claimed to be the boss of the tom cod lifters but yesterday the agitators of the bay put all previous fishing way behind. A quiet little party of five started for a two hours fish, considerable talk was indulged in and every one save one quiet man claimed to be the fisher. At the expiration of the given time the lines were hauled in and fish counted. George Green the quiet man had 86 fish to his score, Charley Griswold 70, Walter Chapman 55, I Patterson 31 while the modest landlord stopt at 40 as he did not wish to make any of the party feel unpleasant by being in the minority. 281 tom cod caught in two hours by hook and line just in front of the house. In the morning Messrs Hill Chapman and Virgil brought into camp about sixty pounds of sea bass perch and porgies. Mr Virgil hauled in fifty fine crabs which count not by ounces but averaged three pounds each, some weighing five pounds.

The "Owl Club" are camping near and their camp fire songs are duly appreciated by all. Some twenty tents are scattered around, and take it all in all Unity is quite lively. We are having splendid weather, plenty of fish etc etc and lots of fun.

An excursion party left Astoria to day consisting of Judge Shattuck, Judge Mason, B G Whitehouse, Ralph Stott, Mr Jones of postal fame, and some twenty five others, who had a "way up" time dinner at the hotel, rambles on the beach etc. They all voted that Unity was the place and why should they not? I cannot give you a list of arrivals as they come by the hundreds, and you have not the space to print them.

A party will start for the Cape on Monday and on Tuesday a fish fry and baked crabs crowd will start for one of those pleasant retreats between the House and the Cape. More anon.

GRANT AND THE WHISKY TRIALS.

The Albany (N. Y.) Journal always a careful Republican paper, says of the testimony of ex Solicitor Bluford Wilson:

Mr Bluford Wilson while showing how fatuously Gen Grant sustained and aided Babcock, at the same time expresses undoubting faith in the President's personal integrity and rectitude. Indeed, in spite of his errors and his unfortunate devotion to unworthy friends, Gen Grant's personal honesty and good faith remain unquestioned. He allowed himself to be grievously deceived. He evinced great solicitude to shield one who did not deserve his protection but it was from no purpose to save a guilty man—it was because he believed him innocent.

"If Gen Babcock is guilty—which I don't believe"—said the President, as Mr Wilson testifies, "he is the most guilty wretch in the world, he has betrayed my confidence in the most infamous way, and besides has betrayed his official trust and no punishment would be too severe for him." Undoubtedly that is precisely the way the President felt. He could not believe Babcock was unworthy of his confidence. Babcock had been with him almost from the beginning of the war. He had been one of his favored and trusted staff officers. He had passed with him from military to civil life and the President reposed implicit trust in his fidelity and honor. More than that Grant became persuaded that the prosecution of Babcock was an indirect blow at himself and while it is most unfortunate that he should have been deceived it was only natural that being deceived and being convinced of these things his resentment should have been aroused.

Mr Wilson's testimony goes to this extent that Grant desired to save Babcock because of a belief in his innocence. Mr Wilson himself does not doubt that the President was sincere in that conviction. All the same it is unfortunate that the President through his long and close friendship, remained blind to what impressed itself upon others. It was a singular case of infatuation and has exposed the President to attacks from which his penetration should have saved him.

The Commercial Reporter solves the silver problem in the following lucid sentence:

"Throughout the world there is general depression in trade circles, following depression is an accumulation of funds and diversion thereof in greater bulk and to far greater disadvantage under the action of Germany and large [illegible] but which is now [illegible] of the mines of Nevada became a drug in the money centers but under a revival of trade favorable signs already [illegible] the demand for money will increase and of necessity such money [illegible] more freely its distribution through all the avenues of trade and commerce will soon reduce the accumulation to a fair bulk thereby gradually raising its standard of value, particularly so if Germany continues [illegible] in her demonetizing scheme which at this [illegible] by many she will sooner or later be [illegible] given."

A few days ago Mr J A Bulkley proprietor of the Harewood coal mines made a proposition to the miners to supply 2 [illegible] pounds to the ton instead of [illegible] for the dirt sent out with the coal. The proposition not being accepted work was suspended and Mr Bulkley notified the miners of a reduction of 10 cents per ton in the price of mining viz from $1 20 to $1 10. The miners held a meeting and decided to accept the reduction.

A gun accident of a very painful character took place at Esquimalt bridge on Thursday afternoon by which Mr Kenneth McKenzie was severely shot in the breast and about the arms and body. It appears that he was in company with another gentleman who lost sight of him for a few minutes and that a bird suddenly rising between him and his friend resulted in the discharge of the latter's gun with the effect mentioned.

A PERTINENT INQUIRY.

EAST PORTLAND Aug 15, 1876.

To the Editor of the Oregonian.

I wish to inquire through the columns of the Oregonian of the State school board why it is that a certain person is allowed to use a portion of the school funds for two years without paying any interest for the use of the same. I am credibly informed that there is one party in Multnomah county who has been using $2,000 of the school fund for two years and that he has not paid any interest on it during this time although he has regularly collected rents from the property mortgaged to secure the payment of the money. Is it because he is a Democrat?

The following cable dispatch to the New York Herald contains all the explanation necessary of the attitude of the Christian powers of Europe toward the Turko Servian war:

LONDON Aug [illegible] 1876.

In the House of Commons this afternoon Sir Stafford Northcote, Baronet Chancellor of the Exchequer in reply to a question by Wm More liberal member for Renfrewshire said the treasury had ordered the Bank of England to advance the money to pay the interest due August 1st on the Turkish loan of 1855 simultaneously communicating with the Turkish and French governments concerning the matter by note. The loan of 1855 is guaranteed by both England and France.

A correspondent writing from the above point under date of the 15th inst sends the following:

The large warehouse on the wharf at Fisher's landing will soon be completed.

The wild grass will be very good on the Columbia river bottoms this season.

The farmers in this county are very busy harvesting and threshing their grain.

The farmers will have a large amount of hay in this part of the country this year.

Wheat and other grains are yielding more to the acre in this county than last year.

It is rumored that Mr. Hawne [illegible] has received an appointment at Sitka Alaska.

It is rumored that a new store is to be started at Fisher's landing some time during the next year.

S D Maxon of this [illegible] has purchased a California [illegible] dryer which is in successful operation.

Mr [illegible] Dillon son of Dr Dillon [illegible] the [illegible] recently from the East has spent [illegible] days in our city.

J F [illegible] Duncan who is running a large cheese factory [illegible] of this place is being very successful in making a No 1 article of cheese.

The steamer [illegible] returned last night about one o'clock with the excursionists who appear to be well pleased with Gen Pike's lecture.

[illegible] has cut this season between one and two hundred tons of timothy hay on the farm [illegible] now occupies on the Fucamus prairie.

Capt Armstrong of the steamer [illegible] is doing a good business on the Columbia above this place which is quite an accommodation to the people.

We took a ride into the country yesterday with S J Whipple and found his new farm on the Fucamus progressing finely. Fucamus prairie has an area of several thousand acres of the richest land perhaps on this coast and is situated about nine miles northeast of this city.

Sometimes a Cough will not yield to ordinary remedies because of the severe inflammation of the delicate lining of the tubes through which the air we breathe is distributed to the lungs. This condition produces Pain and Soreness, Hoarseness, Cough, Difficulty of Breathing, Hectic Fever and a Spitting of Blood Matter or Phlegm finally exhausting the strength of the patient and developing very serious disease. Dr Jayne's Expectorant seldom fails to remove these symptoms by relieving the lungs of all obstructing matter and healing all soreness. Pleurisy, Asthma and Bronchitis are likewise cured by this standard remedy and the reputation it has maintained for so many years affords the best guaranty of its merit.

Hagan's Magnolia Balm preserves and restores the complexion removes freckles tan and sallowness makes the skin soft white and delicate. Its application cannot be detected.

Lyon's Kathairon makes beautiful glossy luxuriant hair, prevents its falling out or turning gray. It has stood the test of 40 years. Is charmingly perfumed and has no rival.

Keep the peace and Oregon wants Noble Whisky. To be had of H Fleckenstein sole agent 117 First street Portland.

Nothing is more essential to health than a clean skin and unobstructed pores. The use of Glenn's Sulphur Soap ensures both. No disease of the skin from common Pimples to Erysipelas can resist its clarifying action.

Great harm and discomfort is caused by the use of purgatives which gripe and rack the system. Pierce's Purgative Pellets are free from all impure matter and are mild and health giving in their operation.

At this season of the year cramps and pains in the stomach and bowels dysentery diarrhoea etc are quite common and should be checked at once. Johnson's Anodyne Liniment is the best article that can be used in all such cases and should be kept in every family. Used internally.

SENATORIAL PORPOISES

A letter to the Baltimore Bulletin says The bathing was never finer anywhere and a fresh breeze from the ocean has been driving in a fine lively surf in which hundreds disport daily There is a place where gentlemen bathe in puris naturalibus which being translated means salt water and which by the way, is the really only enjoyable way to bathe Your correspondent affects it a good deal It is a house with a lattice-work basement in the surf, and one may dive outside into deeper water Your correspondent dived in the other morning with great freedom of action and when about fifty feet out or so came up after the habit of his species to 'blow' When within a few inches of the surface and ascending with great rapidity he met with a sudden resistance not unlike a very full pillow He was immediately conscious of a violent convulsion in the water, and emerged to find an old gentleman lashing and splashing about in the wildest manner and gasping for breath Your correspondent apologized for the abrupt and informal character of the meeting and as the commotion died away was amazed to recognize the benevolent countenance of Senator Bogy, of Missouri

"My gracious Senator, I cried I hope I didn't hurt you"

"No,' puffed the distinguished statesman "I haven't breakfasted yet but I'll tell you what, young man you'd better look before you, you might be the death of somebody that way Why didn't you pick out one of those fellows over there?'

"Who are they?' asked your correspondent, looking in the indicated direction.

"That fat one sticking out of the water like a whale, is Stevenson, and this one is Thurman"

"Bless my soul"' said your correspondent, in blank amazement, 'am I bathing with three United States Senators at once?

"By the way you assaulted me said the Senator, "I should judge you preferred to"

Your correspondent reiterated his apologies, and the senator, after a fashion of the man species when bathing went under, with a rolling movement, like a pat of butter in a pail of water.

"Grand bathing, isn't it?' said he

"Splendid."

"You wouldn't think that Thurman was a younger man than I, would you?" queried the senator.

"Of course he's not. Why, he's as gray as a badger, what there is of him to be gray," said your correspondent.

"He's a younger man than I am for all that," said the senator

"May be," suggested your correspondent, "his being a candidate out there in the heat at St. Louis had something to do with aging him?'

"Young man," said the senator, with a grim smile, "if you know what's good for your bodily health you won't say anything to Thurman about St Louis."

"Ah'' said your correspondent receptively "Only two votes, eh? Delicate subject Just so"

"Bogy!" sung out Senator Thurman, from the top of a wave, 'hadn't we better be going in and getting a little grass before breakfast?"

"I guess so," said the senator, with decision

"Senator," whispered your correspondent, "what the mischief is grass?"

"Grass, young man" said the senator closing one eye and clicking his tongue in a queer way "Grass is susceptible of two definitions—a smash and a julep I rather think added he, with a look at the sun and an introspective tone of voice 'I rather think that the latter definition will prevail this morning Good bye!' And the senatorial legs expanded and were extended after the natatorial example which the frog has bestowed upon mankind, and his statesmanlike form clove the waters and disappeared

OBSERVATIONS ON SUNDAY FLIRTATION —The Rochester Union says In a certain sense all attractive females are flirts True there are women about as good looking as the rough side of a horse radish grater who read with glasses and eat with porcelain teeth and yet flirt There is an excuse for them It is business with them They are obliged to snap at the first chance like hungry wolves But girls who don't have to jump at chances flirt because it is pretty business True, it is pretty, and it is right. That is the only way she is to find out what her beau, possibly her future husband, is like. A man always approaches a girl dressed in society politeness and it is the girl's duty to pierce this thin coating of sugar and plum, and learn what is beneath She cannot accomplish this without flirting. Sunday is a blessed day for this semi-religious work It is like an after dinner hour The men are gallant, the ladies melted out from the week day stiffness, impulses are a top the key of the conversation delightful soprano and the old people are snoozingly satisfied in the cool back room or lazily content in church In the evening the moon gives light enough to see the palpable shafts of a woman's glance when her head is bent forward A woman's face never looks well by moonlight with the chin salient, unless it is when the young man has a few of his fingers engaged in supporting it. When the head is bent downward, the girl can look out of the tops of her eyes A man if at all interested will wither like a cabbage leaf in August before the glance of a woman shot from the tips of her eyes Again on Sunday the heart feels peculiarly soft and tender There is a pathetic sadness in the associations which the heart takes And this is in the woman's favor She should lean away from levity No man ever made any progress in loving while a woman was laughing Nothing will sink up to his soul like that subdued confidingness of tone on sad topics A man may be worldly out of all things he dislikes it is worldliness in a young girl If you have any pity crowd it up on Sunday evenings Better brush up on it in the morning

[illegible] the total [illegible] that had much to do [illegible] in the money market [illegible] present month in the way [illegible] The wool and grain crops [illegible] rapidly than usual [illegible] trade especially during the last weeks in July and the first week in August [illegible] the demand [illegible] Eastern market and growers turned out their [illegible] which usually moves slowly early in the season and was expected to be especially backward this year has also come forward in larger quantity than before since 187[illegible] the deliveries at San Francisco in July this year being [illegible] tons in the same month last year This large export trade has doubtless had the effect to absorb a good deal of the surplus coin which San Franciscans were carrying and though the bonanza mines have been turning out very well the supply has not been quite as great as the demand It is anticipated however that no pressure will be felt as the bulk of the wool clip has already been moved and the call from that direction will not be so large in the future

In our own State the fisheries have kept up a demand on the monetary resources and combined with the requirements of the wool trade has made its supply a cause of activity in financial circles which otherwise would have been dull indeed As the Oregon wool and wheat crops are not marketable at so nearly the same time as are those of California there will be time for the money market to recover before much will be done in the matter of wheat exportation and we shall at least avoid a portion of the causes which have tightened the San Francisco market So far very little money has been paid out for wheat or even promised as but few farmers are anxious to sell or contract until additional light is thrown on the market by fuller reports of the weather and crops abroad and at home The available funds in the local market are still reported ample to satisfy the current demand and rates are quite as low and terms as easy as have prevailed during the spring and earlier summer

The Wool Market.

We remark a continued activity in the local market and shippers are free to take all fair lots offering at current quotations while in some instances slight concessions have been made to holders to secure choice parcels The determination however on the part of those whose fingers were burnt in handling the wool crop of Oregon in former years to operate very cautiously the present season has made the spring clip move a little more slowly than it would have done and induced a good many growers to do their own shipping rather than accept the low rates which local buyers were offering What results have attended these efforts on the part of growers to export their product have not yet been divulged but one thing is certain there has been no sharp or decisive decline in the markets of demand to blight their hopes or upset their calculations since the season opened On the contrary there has been a very quiet and steady condition of the market without any special excitement and a very slow but perceptible improvement in the tone of the business. At the East July 1st the stocks of old wool were but moderate and the new clip had come forward slowly A letter from New York dated August 1st, notes the sales in that market last week of nearly 4 000,000 lbs, among them the disposal of 51 000 lbs of Oregon wool at prices ranging from 23c for lowest grades to 30c for best Sales in the aggregate of spring California, amounting to 1,6[illegible]1 000 lbs, were made at 15@23c The market quotations in New York on the first day of August were for Oregon unwashed average 23@26c and for Oregon combing, 28@30c while for California the figures were 11@27c as the extremes Of course the wools from our State which are of a superior quality are not distinctively marked and some of them doubtless have been placed at considerably over the above, All the indications considered the present outlook though not suggestive of any probable marked advance is nevertheless encouraging to the hope of a fair and steady demand during the remainder of the season
